Investigation and numerical solution of one systems of nonlinear partial integro-differential equations

Z. Kiguradze

Asymptotic behavior of solution of initial-boundary value problem for one system describing   process of electromagnetic field propagation in the substance is investigated. The semi-discrete and fully discrete schemes for the numerical solution are studied. The considered nonlinearity has more general form than one was studied earlier.