PROGRAMMING THE SEMANTIC WEB

Anriette Bishara
International Black Sea University, Tbilisi, Georgia, anriettehazem@yahoo.com

In this paper we study programming techniques used in the Semantic Web. The Semantic Web is considered to be the next generation web, combining various technologies. It changes the way we deal with data. For these reasons it appears that there is no right kind of programming paradigms yet to deal with the data in a proper manner. We discuss existing problems and propose some solutions.