

Some plane strain problems for elastic materials with double voids

Bakur Gulua

The present talk deals with plane strain problem for linear elastic materials with double voids. general solution of the governing system of equations of the plane strain is represented by means of two analytic functions of the complex variable and two solutions of Helmholtz equations. The constructed general solution enables one to solve analytically a sufficiently wide class of plane boundary value problems of the elastic equilibrium with double voids.